VILLAGE OFFICERS ELECTED IN TOWNS IN THIS VICINITY

CONTESTS ARE FEW AND LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN IN VILLAGES THAT VOTED.

STERLING MAYOR IS DEFEATED

McDonald Fails of Re-Election, A. J. Platt Receiving That Honor.

Many Lee and Ogie county towns voted on village officers yesterday. The contests were few and little interest was exhibited among the voters, few turning out. The results of the various elections are given in the following dispatches.

Byron Mayor Re-Elected

Amboy.

Aldermen 2nd ward—W. J. Edwards, Thomas Fisher, James Briggs.
Aldermen 3rd ward—Frank Brady, Melvin Barlow, Adolph Barlow.

Sunday Shows Win.

Rockford, Apr. 16—Special—At the city election held here yesterday the people of the city decided in favor of Sunday shows by a majority of 500. Mayor Bennett was re-elected over all his opponents, demonstrating that as far as local option is concerned the "drys" are in control of the city.

Farver Ashton Mayor.

Ashton, Apr. 16—Special—J. B. Farver was elected mayor on the people's ticket yesterday. His republican opponent, F. H. Boyd, received 67 votes to Farver's 121.

In company with Lyle, his younger brother, and Harold Eisenberg, he went fishing in a pond in a stone quarry near his home. Raymond in some way lost his balance and fell into the water. His brother, in trying to save him, also fell in, but succeeded in climbing out.

AUTO BANDIT IS DISCOVERED HERE

BUT THE FELLOW REALLY DID NOT KNOW HE HAD THE WRONG CAR.

There was a little excitement yesterday among the police force when Dr. Aydelotte of this city informed them that a daring daylight robber had driven up in front of his house in the middle of the afternoon in an auto, hitched ropes to his auto, which was standing at the curb and driven off with the car, which was nowhere to be found.

From appearances, Dixon was being visited by an auto bandit or so. A round of the garages was the natural thing, and the mystery was unraveled when the car was found at Hart & Nett's garage, where the machine had been taken by one of their workmen by mistake. The chauffeur had been sent up in Aydelotte's neighborhood in response to a call from another auto owner in distress and he simply got the wrong car.

LOST FINGER IN MACHINERY

Alvin Fordyce, an employe at the Dan Donovan meat market, lost part of the second finger of his right hand while working with some machinery at the shop yesterday afternoon. The digit was caught in the cogs of the machine and was so badly crushed that amputation of the finger at the first joint was necessary. The injury will incapacitate the young man for several weeks.

INJURED BY WILD COLT.

William Teschendorff, 803 Fellows street, was painfully hurt yesterday while breaking a colt, when one rein broke and allowed the animal to run away. Mr. Teschendorff attempted to get out of the breaking cart, and he was thrown violently to the ground, his left ankle and right wrist being sprained.

CALLS M'KINLEY A "SHRIMP AND WART"

BROWNE AND SPEAKER M'KINLEY HAVE WARM TILT IN HOUSE TODAY.

DUNNE MAKES APPOINTMENTS

Governor Sends Names of His Senate Appointments in for Confirmation.

Springfield, Ill., Apr. 16—Special to Telegraph—Lee O'Neill Browne and Speaker McKinley in the Illinois house of representatives, were near to a fist fight today when hot words passed between them. Browne grew nasty in his speech and called Speaker McKinley a "shrimp" and "wart." When the LaSalle man was ordered to his seat he had to be restrained forcibly from attacking the speaker with his fists. The scene occurred before the house and grew out of the discussion of a resolution of Frank Ryan's of Chicago for a joint commission to investigate certain Cook county, public utilities and newspapers.

Dunne Offers Appointments.

Governor Dunne today submitted the following appointments to the state senate:

James F. Bishop, public administrator, Cook county.

Edward McDermott, public administrator, Lake county.

Trustees of the Southern Illinois penitentiary: O. S. Pace, Jefferson county; Frank Orre, Brown county; E. F. Coleman, Fayette county.

MAY LOCATE FACTORY HERE

REPRESENTATIVES OF EASTERN CONCERN VISITS DIXON ON MISSION.

Further evidence of Dixon's desirability as a manufacturing center was shown today when representatives of an eastern knitting corporation visited this city and inspected possible locations.

The two men who are here, residents of Massachusetts and Rhode Island respectively, came with the idea of finding a location but would not admit just what their plans were.

They spent the afternoon in conference with officials of the Citizens' association, but at a late hour had not presented any proposition to the association.

Lee Center, Apr. 16—Special to Telegraph—Several cases of smallpox are reported here, and they have been placed under quarantine.

The I. N. U. have installed a new lighting system in West Brooklyn and the lights have just been turned on at that place. The residents are delighted with the effect of the new arrangement.

RENEW EFFORTS TO SECURE NEW LIGHTS

CAMPAIGN AMONG MERCHANTS IS BEING PUSHED TO LIMIT.

The campaign among the merchants for the new ornamental boulevard lights in the downtown district was renewed today when the committees in the various uncanvassed blocks made their rounds.

Thus far the business men who have been approached have been very liberal in their subscription toward the project and the committees at work now meet with as much success as those which have completed their canvass, the lights seem assured, if the council will appropriate for their maintenance.

GEORGE KLYLA DIED SUDDENLY TODAY

SON-IN-LAW OF DAVID STRATTON PASSED AWAY IN BELVIDERE.

David Stratton of this city today received a telephonic message from Belvidere announcing the sudden death of his son-in-law, George Klyla, in the hospital there at 2 o'clock this morning. The information was to the effect that the unfortunate man had gone into the country yesterday afternoon in his automobile and while driving had been taken suddenly ill with heart trouble, that he was taken to a farm house, from which place he was rushed to a hospital in an ambulance.

ENJOY CANADIAN HOME.

In writing from Briarcrest, Canada, to renew his subscription to the Telegraph, Charles A. Hatch says: "We are enjoying our new home. Had fine weather all winter and are now preparing to sow wheat. We are having lovely spring weather at present. We often think of home and home friends, and cannot get along without the Telegraph."

COMMITTS SUICIDE IN WHITESIDE CO JAIL BY BURNING

MICHAEL SELLERS' LAST ATTEMPT AT SELF-DESTRUCTION WAS FATAL.

SHERIFF WAHL BAULY BURNED

Sterling Man, Facing Serious Charge Set Fire to Jail and Burned Himself to Death.

Morrison, Ill., Apr. 16—Special to the Telegraph—Michael Sellers, a prisoner in the Whiteside county jail here, facing a charge of assault on a Sterling girl, committed suicide in a horrible manner, setting fire to the jail, the interior of which was ruined, and nearly caused the death of Sheriff Wahl, who is in a very serious condition as the result of his burns.

Death By Fire.

Sellers, who has a record of previous jail sentences and actions that made him an undesirable citizen, made several attempts during yesterday to end his life. He had procured poison in some manner and consumed it, and when efforts were made by physicians to counteract the poison, he resisted, saying that he wanted to die. The poisons did not have a fatal effect, however, and he then threatened to make a bonfire of the jail before night.

Because of his actions he was placed in a padded cell in solitary confinement.

Borrowed Matches.

After supper, it is presumed that he asked a fellow prisoner for some matches, saying that he wanted to smoke. They were handed to him through the bars.

A few moments later smoke began issuing from the cell and he yelled that he had started a bonfire.

Sheriff Wahl heard the commotion and came to the rescue. When he opened the cell door and tried to pull the crazy prisoner from the mass of flames, the fellow fought, and pulled the sheriff in with him. A deputy then came and succeeded in pulling Wahl out of the cell, but not before he had suffered greatly from burns and had inhaled smoke and gases. Sellers' body was soon recovered, but it had been burned to a cinder and life was extinct. Sheriff Wahl is in a very critical condition, but will probably live.

Jail Badly Burned.

Before the fire in the jail had been extinguished the interior had been ruined, leaving nothing but the four walls and roof. One other prisoner who was in the jail at the time was released on promise that he would return and serve out his sentence.

Mammion Paroled.

John Mammion, a Sterling saloon-keeper who had been in the jail serving a six months' sentence for illegal sale of liquor, had been paroled and released from the jail a few hours before the affair happened.

Crowd Quickly Gathers.

News of the tragedy spread rapidly and soon auto owners from all over the county were on the scene and many came from Sterling on the night trains. The first report was that several had been burned to death and that the jail was entirely destroyed.

Sellers Assaulted Girl.

Michael Sellers was in the jail awaiting trial on the charge of assaulting Miss Louise Eller on the streets of Sterling Monday night, March 31. His conduct at that time was brutal and excited great feeling against him. If he had lived he undoubtedly would have been convicted and given a long sentence in the penitentiary.

Glasses for near work

As a rule far-sighted people need glasses for near work, only such as reading, sewing, etc.

But occasionally, when the eyes are strained or when headaches persist, it is necessary for far-sighted people to wear their glasses constantly.

However, the main thought is that relief comes through wearing glasses—wearing them for near work only, or steadily, which ever experience proves is the best.

You cannot get any more exact form of testing than we have to give Friday by the committee of you.

HEAD COVERED WITH WHITE PIMPLES

Went to Ear, Shoulders and Whole Body. Thick and Sticky on Head. Eruption Covered With Blood. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Ransom, Ill.—"The trouble started on our baby when he was only about two weeks old. Started like little white pimples, looked like an old scab of blood and matter. His whole head was covered for a few months then it went to his ear, shoulders, and his whole body. It seemed to come out thick and sticky on his head, while on the other parts of his body it was more like water coming out of the skin. He would scratch until the eruption would be all covered with blood and gradually spread. The least little stir or rub would cause the sores to bleed, spread and itch. Never had a full night's sleep, restless all night.

"The sores were horrid to look at. It lasted until he was about two and a half years old. Then we saw an eczema advertisement in the paper to use —, but it did no good. Then we used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. We put the Cuticura Ointment on thick at bed time and put a tight hood on so he could not scratch the sores. Then we washed it clean with Cuticura Soap and warm water twice a day, and he was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. E. F. Sulzberger, Dec. 30, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

For tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

QUEER ESKIMO CUSTOMS.

Every ten years the Eskimos hold the Dance to the Dead, when ghosts are supposed to come out of their coffins and visit the Kos-ga, where they are given a feast, and retire well filled for another ten years. At times the food is taken to the burying ground, to save the spirits the trouble of moving.

When a child is born among the islanders it takes the name of the last deceased member of the family, and on it devolves the duty of feeding 'ts foster father's spirit. The Eskimos have a horror of being childless, because their spirits will languish and their names be forgotten. As they say 'S'pose no Mik-a-nina (children)—ghost plenty hungry. Often an Eskimo will beggar himself giving a feast in honor of his illustrious ancestor; but he gains great renown thereby, and places all his visitors under lifelong obligations to him.

NEW U. S. CAVALRY SWORD

HAS THRUSTING POINT
The new sword just adopted by the U. S. army authorities is strikingly different in almost every detail from the old saber, says the May Popular Mechanics. The blade is 25 1/2 inches long, perfectly straight, sharp on both sides, and tapers to a sharp point. The guard is strongly constructed and affords complete protection to the hand. The sword itself weighs a trifle more than the old saber, but the combined weight of sword and scabbard is about 2 oz. less than the old equipment. The service scabbard for the new sword is of wood covered with rawhide and canvas. Officers' service scabbards are dull-finished steel, while they will wear blue-steel scabbards on garrison duty.

The new sword makes it easier to train soldiers to use the point instead of the cutting edge. Cavalry experience has demonstrated that the sword is much more effective for thrusting than for slashing, though the tendency of the beginner with the saber is to swing as though it were an axe or a club. A cutting blow, even with a sharp sword, seldom dismounts or disables an opponent, while the forward thrust with the point, with comparatively little force behind it, usually kills or disables if it reaches its mark.

FERMENTOLOGY

CHICAGO

April 1, 1911.
Mr. Alfred Uihlein
Schlitz Brewing Co.
Milwaukee, Wis.

Dear Sir:
Answering your favor of recent date in regard to the influence of light on the quality of beer, will say that our observations, extending over the last twenty-five years, have convinced us beyond a doubt that exposure of beer to light has a very detrimental influence on its quality generally, but especially upon the flavor of the beer.

We have tested beers repeatedly in this direction placing the bottles into direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure, found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable on account of the peculiar odor developed.

The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles, and such bottles are therefore recommendable.

Yours very truly,

RW/B

Wahl-Henius Institute
Extract from letter to Mr. Alfred Uihlein, written by Robert Wahl, President of the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, Inc., Chicago.

"Beer bottles should be manufactured from reddish-brown glass, inasmuch as same will to a much higher degree than any other kind of glass, minimize the influence of the rays of light on the quality of beer, and will protect the latter against acquiring the disagreeable taste (Sonnengeschmack) due to the chemical action of the light. **

"In white and green glass bottles the beer is most affected by the action of the light. Such bottles are, therefore, absolutely inappropriate and should never be employed by brewers." (Signed) Prof. Dr. F. Schenfeld.

From the Illuminated Brewery Encyclopedia, p. 99 (Illustration: Brown & Leckert). Published by Dr. Max Delbrück, Prory Councilor, Professor at the Royal Agricultural College and Director of the Institute for Fermentation, at Berlin, Berlin, 1910.

"Bottles of strong glass should be of colorless glass, inasmuch as through the influence of light the beer will not only take on a disagreeable odor and taste, but will also become turbid." (Lutner.)

Extract from Die Mals und Bierkunde, Published by E. Leysen, Director of the Brewing Academy in Augsburg. Tenth Edition, Stuttgart, 1900, page 680.

"The beer in the white glass bottle had taken on disagreeable odor and taste and was absolutely undrinkable. The beer in the dark bottles did not show this peculiar odor and taste." (G. Beck.)

Translation of Extract from Zeitschrift für das gesamte Brauwesen, 1882—page 370.

"It is interesting to note the observation that beer in colorless bottles exposed to diffused light will undergo a change, precipitating a heavy sediment and taking on a disagreeable odor and taste."

Extract from Die Theorie und Praxis der Malzbereitung, Published by Director Julius E. Thunig, Leipzig, 1891, Fourth Edition, page 920.

"It is a known fact that sunlight and daylight influence unfavorably the taste and flavor of the beer and care must be exercised in the selection of the bottles."

J. Brand (Zeitschrift für das gesamte Brauwesen, 1908, p. 333).

SUIT TO BREAK WILL OF

LATE THOS. W. HENRY

Ogle County Republican: On Friday last before Attorney Bert S. Duzan, who was appointed commissioner by the district court of Polk Co., Iowa, to take evidence in the contest proceedings against the will of the late Thomas W. Henry of Des Moines, Iowa, the testimony of several of the older residents and business men of Oregon was taken, it being the purpose of the contestants to show that the deceased deserted his first wife and children in this city without cause in the year 1877 and failed to provide for their support.

The deceased left Oregon in the summer of 1876 and went to Sterling where he opened a restaurant and bakery. In April 1880 his wife, Josephine Henry, secured a divorce from him and several days later he was married to a Sterling lady. At the time of his death, Mr. Henry left an estate of close to $60,000 and which was practically all left by the terms of his will to his present wife, the children of his first marriage, Harry Henry of this city, and Mrs. Maude Lawson of Pekin, Ill., being left between them a sum not over $600.

These two have entered a contest upon the will through their attorneys, R. M. Davidson and E. A. Ray, of this city, and will undertake to prove that undue influence on the part of the second wife was brought to bear when the will was drawn. The hearing on the case has been set for next week at Des Moines, Ia.

PARIS POLICE USE HAND

CANNON AND SHIELD

The Paris police department is now equipped with what is considered an effective weapon for use in dislodging automobile bandits and other criminals who barricade themselves in houses and defy capture, which is a habit the Paris 'Apaches' have developed quite extensively in recent years. In two recent affairs of this kind the bandits kept the police off for several days.

The weapon, which is shown on the cover of the May Popular Mechanics Magazine, is a hand cannon, designed particularly for throwing bombs which, when they explode, will fill a room with suffocating gas sufficiently powerful to overcome the occupants.

Using Lime to Improve
Soils of Illinois Farms

Illinois Farmers' Institute:

There is only one form of lime advocated by the Illinois Agricultural Experimental station and the Illinois Farmers' Institute for use on the farms of Illinois: this is the ground limestone rock, and it is not recommended as a fertilizer direct but as a re-agent to bring about certain changes in the soil. If the soil is acid legumes do not flourish because the bacteria that live on their roots cannot thrive in an acid soil. Ground limestone will restore its sweetness; it will also promote the activity of the nitrifying bacteria that change organic nitrogen to nitrates, in which form only do plants take nitrogen through their roots. It will flocculate a heavy clay soil. Ground limestone will restore there are many plants that do not use lime as food, legumes and certain other crops demand such quantities that we are justified in supplying the lime for all common Illinois soils.

Alfalfa a Heavy Feeder

Dr. Cyril G. Hopkins reports that the most common prairie soil of the southern part of Illinois contains only 4,788 pounds of lime, (CaO), whereas from his calculations 4,914 pounds are required for 30 four-ton crops of red clover. The same soil contains only enough lime for 23 four-ton crops of alfalfa. We must all realize, sooner or later, that our greatest problem in the restoration of our depleted soils is the supplying of humus and nitrogen, and that the first step in solving the problem is the application of limestone.

Limestone in 318 Tests

During the last nine years the Illinois Station has made 318 tests to determine the effect of lime (ground limestone) on crop yield in southern Illinois. These tests were made at Odin, Edgewood, Mascoutah, DuBois, Cutler, Ewing, Raleigh, and Vienna. They include 79 tests of legumes, (clover, cowpeas, and soy beans), 122 tests on corn, 55 tests on oats, and 62 tests on wheat, these crops being grown in the rotation practiced. As an average of all the tests the yield per acre has been increased by one half ton of hay, by 5.0 bushels of corn, by 6.6 bushels of oats, and by 4.0 bushels of wheat. The data secured and here reported amply sufficient to justify the conclusion that, in practice, economic systems of farming on the prairie and timber soils of southern Illinois limestone, at less than $1 per acre per year will produce one half ton more of clover or cowpea hay, 5 bushels more corn, 6 bushels more oats and 4 bushels more wheat per acre.

Make Improvement Permanent

While the liberal use of limestone and the return of the increased vegetable matter will make marked and profitable improvement in soils, yet the improvement will be only temporary unless phosphorus is also added because this element is present in the soil in small amount and it is removed in crop and sold from the farm, not only in grain and hay, but also in bone, in meat, and in milk.—Farmers' Institute.

VULGARITY OF THE RICH

Any display is vulgar. The "smart set" those who parade their new gowns at the horse show, wear costly jewels, live in houses stuffed with expensive furniture, drink wines costing many dollars a bottle, ride in private yachts and private cars, and altogether surround themselves with extravagance that goes beyond comfort, are vulgar. The millionaire who gives a dinner at $200 a plate may not be a sinner, but he certainly is common and low. Any addle-pated fool could do it; and nobody but a fool would do it. There can be no culture without a deliberate and habitual preference for simplicity. Many houses on Fifth Avenue, New York, are as vulgar as the slums on the East Side.

And thrusting one's self into notice is vulgar. Loud talking, breaking in upon conversation of others, strutting, affected airs or affected tone of voice, flashy clothes, having the fingers covered with rings, or displaying large jewels, officiousness, and all such things indicate a certain coarseness.—Dr. Frank Crane in Woman's World for March.

A SCOUT AND A GENTLEMAN

The question "What is a gentleman?" is answered by Sir Robert S. S. Baden-Powell, Chief Scout of the British Boy Scouts in the following manner: "Many people are inclined to think that the word 'gentleman' means a man who was born rich, and that a boy brought up at expensive schools and colleges must therefore be a gentleman when he has grown up. But this does not always follow. A fellow who is lucky enough to have been brought up that way has certainly better chances of being a gentleman than many a poor boy has, but at the same time a poor boy can be just as much of a gentleman as a rich one. A gentleman is what the word says; he is a man, but a gentleman, not a rough, bullying, coarse customer, but a fellow, who, though big and strong, can be kind and chivalrous and helpful to other people."

COL. SHAND READ HIS OWN OBITUARY

HARRISBURG, (ILL.) PAPER PRINTED REPORT OF HIS DEATH, SWEPT FROM RAFT

Illinois State Register: Deep and raging waters, a high wind, a raft, a tree and their relation to the rumored death of an assistant adjutant general of Illinois, engaged in rescue work at Shawneetown, made up a newspaper story which was yesterday brought to the attention of Assistant Adjutant-General Shand.

From its beginning the story was interesting reading to Colonel Shand. But the Colonel's interest gained a throb when he discovered he was reading of his own death.

The newspaper story, the authenticity of which Colonel Shand is peculiarly glad to be able today to deny, is:

"Colonel Drowned"
"The Daily News gets the sad intelligence through the kindness of Mr. Aaron, local manager of the Murphysboro Telephone Co., that the colonel in charge of the state troops at Shawneetown was drowned there Wednesday night. He was on a raft directing the rescue work and the high wind blew the raft against a tree, resulting in his being thrown into the deep and raging waters and he was drowned."

The meagre reports indicated that it was Colonel Shand, formerly of Governor Deneen's staff, and a leading candidate for adjutant-general, when Dickson was appointed. He was, at the time of his death, assistant adjutant-general."

The story was printed in the Saline County Daily News, in its issue of April 4, 1913. The paper is published in Harrisburg, Ill.

TWENTY-TWO BIRTHS ON COLORADO FARM IN DAY

Grand Junction, Col., April 16—Joseph Harrison, a rancher, was awakened by the doctor at 4 o'clock this morning to rock his new born twin boys to sleep. When he went out to the barn to do his early chores he stumbled over a new born calf, and just after sunrise his blooded brood sow gave birth to a litter of pigs. Not to be outdone a setting hen hatched out eleven little chicks and a pigeon hatched two squabs—twenty-two births in all.

CHOKED BY KERNEL OF CORN

THREE-YEAR OLD PRINCETON LAD DIES BEFORE HOSPITAL CAN BE REACHED

Princeton, Ill., April 16—Frank O. Anderson the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Anderson of Princeton, was choked to death Tuesday of last week by a kernel of corn which lodged in his throat. He expired while preparations were being made to take him to Chicago for an operation. The kernel of corn, it is believed, formed an obstruction in the lungs, and practically drowned the child in his own secretions. The accident which resulted in the tragedy, happened about 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, while the child was playing in the yard at his home in Fairview. He swallowed several kernels of corn from an ear that he found near the barn. One of them lodged in his throat.

SOFTENING OF THE BRAIN.

"These fellows who talk about letting the people rule in one breath and then about a short ballot the next must be troubled with softening of the brain. Why don't you short ballot fellows come out squarely and say that you think the people are not capable of electing their public servants, for that is what your tommyrot means."—Madison Independent Press.

Ponder the list of those "fellows" whose brains are thus softened: W. H. Taft, Woodrow Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt, Charles W. Elliot, Charles E. Hughes, Nicholas Murray Butler, the editors of hundreds of the greatest daily papers, all the professors of political science in our universities, most of the governors and millions of private citizens who can have no stake in the existing order.

I am a Republican, without prefix, suffix or affix."

BIG STRIKE SPREADS

Belgium Government Is Obdurate in Its Stand.

Premier Declares That to Yield Would Be to Put Weapon Into Hands of Socialists.

Brussels, Belgium, April 16—More than a third of the total number of workmen in Belgium are on strike. Figures gathered from all the provinces except Antwerp and West Flanders showed a total of 256,000 strikers. In Antwerp and West Flanders, where the Socialists are weakest, there are about 14,000 strikers, making in all 270,000 men.

There has been no violence and tranquillity is reported everywhere. Only four men have been arrested thus far for interfering with non-strikers.

The number of strikers at Ghent have increased. The transfer of freight to Germany has been interrupted and the departure of several steamers delayed.

Premier DeBrouckere admitted that if the strike drags on it may prove dangerous by leading to disorders, but he said there is no present reason to fear disturbances.

The premier added that, while the electoral laws were not such that they could not be changed for the better, the government could not allow itself to be coerced, and must stand firm in the face of menaces. To agree to the Socialists' demands would be to place in their hands an eternal weapon, which they would brandish at the heads of a future government, he declared.

LYNCH HAS OPPOSITION

Head of the Printers' Union Is Opposed for Public Printer.

Washington, April 16—Strong opposition has developed toward the slated appointment of James M. Lynch, president of the International union, to the public printership. Both among local members of the union, in the printery and at the capitol threats were made to oppose the appointment. It was charged that Lynch was a professional labor union man; that he would enforce the closed shop rule were he elected to the office, and that he was not a consistent Democrat.

POPE'S DEATH IS EXPECTED TODAY

Doctor Amici Says Pontiff Will Not See the Dawn of Thursday.

TEMPERATURE IS UP TO 102

Physicians Administer Heart Stimulants During the Night—Congestion in Throat and Lungs May Choke Life From Body.

Rome, April 16.—It is admitted unofficially at the Vatican that the pope is being kept alive through the efforts of his physicians.

Rome, April 16.—Pope Plus X. is expected to die some time today by Doctor Andreas Amici and Vatican prelates. The life of the pontiff has been ebbing lower each hour and nearly all of those within the papal bedchamber fear that he will not live until Thursday. It was reported that the pope's temperature had risen to over 102 degrees during night, and had not shown any signs of abatement. His left lung and bronchial tubes are seriously congested and the symptoms of pneumonia remain more threatening.

Will Not Live to Thursday.
Doctor Amici left the papal chamber for a moment early today and said to a friend:

"I fear his holiness will not see the dawn of Thursday."

It was reported this morning that Professor Marchisafava and Doctor Amici and Doctor Caggiati, who have remained constantly in the sick room, had administered heart stimulants more frequently during the night.

It was learned this morning that Cardinal Merry del Val struck out the statement from an early bulletin, which said that the pope's expectoration had diminished but that his throat had become dry. Unless this condition is changed within an hour, the physicians will be forced to administer emetics to the patient to enable him to free his throat and lungs of the congestion which is becoming more persistent.

Fearful Pope Will Choke to Death.
Unless the pope is able to rid himself of a portion of this congestion it is feared that he will choke to death during one of the collapses which have marked the progress of his relapse.

Monsignor Parolin, the pope's nephew, became so alarmed at one time after midnight that he begged Cardinal Merry del Val to hasten the administration of the last sacraments. Upon the advice of the physicians this was not done, as in his present condition the pontiff could not retain the viaticum, even though the condition of his throat were such as to enable him to swallow the thin wafer.

The physicians further felt that the administration of the sacrament would cause the holy father deep emotion and probably result in hastening his death.

Physicians Constantly Present.
Professor Marchisafava and Doctor Amici have been in constant attendance in the papal bedchamber since appearance of the alarming symptoms late in the afternoon.

It was officially admitted by the papal physicians for the first time that the left lung of the pope has become affected with bronchial pneumonia. This was rumored two days ago, but the suggestion that his holiness was suffering from any form of pneumonia was promptly denied by Professor Marchisafava.

When it was learned that the pope had experienced a material rise in temperature and that the bronchial pneumonia symptoms had been greatly augmented, great apprehension was expressed.

So optimistic had been the feeling over the pope's condition during the day that his sisters, Anna and Maria Sarto, had returned to their apartments for a much needed rest after the long vigil spent at their brother's bedside. Shortly before the bulletin announcing the change was made public the sisters were hurried from their home to the Vatican in a closed carriage.

Angelo Sarto, the pope's brother, who was hastily summoned, has arrived from Grazia.

Abandon Hope at Vatican.

The attitude taken by the Vatican toward the holy father's condition is well indicated by the appointment of a new noble guard, following a custom centuries old, for the purpose of guarding the pope's body after death. It was remarked that this action has never been taken unless the decease of the holy father has been considered only a matter of hours.

Cardinal Merry del Val issued a bulletin announcing that the pontiff had exhibited no marked change of health over that indicated by the noon bulletin, which read:

George L. Link Dies Suddenly.
Denver, Colo., April 16.—George L. Link, seventy, formerly president of the Sharp Piano company of Chicago and Huntington, Ind., but recently a resident of Denver, was found dead in bed in his apartment. Death apparently was due to apoplexy.

Armistice Is Reported.

Constantinople, April 16.—A report is in circulation here that a ten days' armistice has been concluded between Turkey and Bulgaria.

CHAPTER XXII.

The Truth at Last.

"Billy," began the Watermelon, turning aside with darkening eyes, his flushed face growing slowly white as he realized the reckoning had come. Billy must know all now, know who her companion of the past week was, know the status of the man who had told her he loved her. Then he turned to her again with all his mad, wild, foolish, hopeless longing in his eyes and voice and held out his arms.

"Oh, kid, I love you," he whispered, as she went to him, frankly and happily. "I love you so I can't marry you."

"It's old-fashioned to love your wife, I know," chirruped Billy, "but let's be old-fashioned."

"It isn't that, Billy," said the Watermelon slowly. He held her a moment, looking down into her eyes as she looked up at him, her hands on his shoulders, her head back.

"What is it?" she asked, frankly puzzled, but refusing to be dismayed. "You can't afford a wife, you who made three-four-millions this year?"

"Yes," said the Watermelon, grim and quiet, "that's it." He let her go and thrust his hands into his pockets. "I haven't a cent, haven't ever had one. I'm a tramp without a cent, stony broke. That suit-case, kicking Batchelor's suit-case which he had carried with him, is another's and I'm going to chuck it tonight."

Billy stared, mouth slightly parted, her brows drawn together in wonder, unbelieving. "Not Batchelor?" she stammered. "William Hargrave Batchelor?"

"I am Jeroboam Martin of Nowhere and Everywhere," said the Watermelon bitterly. "That Sunday I met you, I found Batchelor in bathing down in the woods. I swiped his clothes, Billy, for the dinner I could get at the hotel! Then I saw you. I wanted the week with you and I just went on being Batchelor. See?"

"How?" asked Billy through white lips, staring at him from where she stood in the middle of the tiny cow lane, winding away up the hill among the sweet fern and the bracken.

to his head and gently brushed his back hair with futile embarrassment. "Why, you know that guy we heard coughing in the bushes? Well, he put me wise to the fact that your father—that your father and Batchelor were enemies on the Street and I thought—maybe—if—why, your father asked me to go with you on the trip, you know, and I thought—er—that if Batchelor was in the city alone and your father thought he was with him—why, Batchelor could beat him on the Street and not mind the loss of the few things I had to take—er—see, I deceived the gang of you for a week's fun. See what a cheap guy I am, Billy? A bad egg."

"Yes," said Billy. "Father asked you to go. Why did he do that?"

The Watermelon flushed. "Why—er—"

"Father knew you were an enemy. He told me that you, Batchelor, I mean, had made him lose a lot of money last week and would probably make him lose more next week. Maybe father thought as you did, that if you were out of the city—she knitted her brows and gazed off across the valley. "Father telegraphed just before we went to that place behind the barn, right after dinner. I know, for I saw him go to the office. Why don't you tell me the truth, Jerry?"

"God, Billy, ain't I giving you the straight goods?"

"Not about father," replied Bartlett's daughter gravely.

"Why—er—he may have telegraphed—"

"Certainly he did," said Billy. "This whole trip was father's idea." She brushed the subject aside as one to be returned to later. "Tell me, Jerry, isn't your father a minister?"

"Yes, that's straight. He was poor, darned poor. We were all poor. He used to say that a man with more children than brains had no place in the ministry."

"I should think that possibly your father had brains," suggested Billy.

"Yes," admitted the Watermelon. "But they didn't keep pace with the children."

"What happened to you all? Why—er—why couldn't you have worked at something?"

She was gazing at him bewildered, trying to get a grasp on the new state of affairs.

"Aw, we went from bad to worse," muttered the Watermelon sullenly. "Father left the ministry. He used to say that you could appreciate the glory of the Almighty much better in a dollar bill than in the Bible."

"Maybe he had—er—no leanings toward the ministry," murmured Billy, endeavoring to express as politely as possible her growing conviction that the Reverend Mr. Martin was not a really man.

"Maybe not," agreed the Watermelon. "But when a man's down, every one's down on him. Nothing father did went right. Ma died and the home broke up—I don't know what's become of all the others—working, I suppose, day after day, like slaves in a galley, you know. I tried it, and every night I drank to drown the damnable monotony and stupidity of it all. So, you see what I am, a bum—a tramp."

"And yourself, my love, my Jerry." Billy held out her hands and he caught them and held them tightly in both his own for a moment, then dropping them, turned away with half a sob.

"Don't, Billy. Don't make it hard for me, dear. We can't marry. I'm fifth and you're sweetness and purity."

"But other men have married. You aren't the only one who isn't clean."

"I know, but I love you. See? When you love a person, you don't make them suffer for it. You can't understand, Billy, for you have never known life. You don't begin to know what it means. I will probably marry a girl from the streets, or one with no brains and no soul. But, you see, I love you."

in-law from what I know of him; but only a week—"

"Just Be Nice to Him, You Know."

"I loved him that very first day. And please, father, you won't say anything, even to him, about it? Just be nice to him, you know. And then I won't say anything."

"Certainly I won't say a thing if you don't want me to, Billy—but there is nothing whatever that you could say."

"No," said Billy, "only what I heard."

The carriage drove up at that moment, which was well.

FREE COFFEE BARRED

Duty to Remain on Wheat and Flour Also.

Led by Chairman Underwood All Amendments to Tariff Bill Are Rejected—Progress Slow.

Washington, April 16.—Free coffee with a duty in the Underwood bill on all substitutes for coffee and a fight to get free wheat, free flour being provided, held the Democratic house caucus and delayed the expected rapid progress on approval of the tariff bill.

Led by Mr. Underwood, who was able to take charge of tariff fight again, all amendments were rejected and the schedules attacked stand unchanged. Representative Bourssard, Louisiana, made the fight for free admission of all substitutes for coffee. In doing so he announced that he desired to show the inequalities and unfairness which lie at the basis of the proposed tariff revision.

Prepared chicory, dandelion root and prepared cereals, substitutes for coffee, are taxed under the bill at two cents a pound.

er marry any one else with me alive," said she.

"How could I marry you, dear? I have nothing—absolutely nothing. We couldn't have a home anywhere."

"We can make a home," pleaded Billy.

"You can't make a home with nothing to make it on," said the Watermelon.

"Ah, but we have something to make it on," cried Billy. "We have you and me."

"But no money."

"Why, Jerry, I have money; hundreds, thousands, dear."

But the Watermelon shook his head. "Money wouldn't be any good when I'm rotten," said he.

"Dear," crooned Billy, and kissed him on the chin, for she could reach no higher.

"Billy," he groaned.

"Tell me you love me, Jerry."

"Tell you I love you? Ah, sweetheart."

"Tell it to me, Jerry."

"Billy, I love you so, that if there is a God, I will thank him all my life for this week and the thought of you."

"You may not," said Billy, "when we have been married a year."

"We can't marry, dear. Don't you understand? I'm a tramp."

"And so am I."

"Your father will kick me out when he knows—"

"It's none of my father's business," said Billy with a saucy tilt of her small chin. "He's marrying whom he pleases and I shall do the same."

"Wait until I speak to him—"

"No," said Billy promptly. "I will speak, Jerry. Promise me that you won't say a thing until we get to the town where we can telegraph. Oh, Jerry, my love, promise me."

"I promise, Billy, kid."

"Promise you won't say a thing until I speak."

"I won't say a thing until I can't help it, but what good will that do?"

"Let's be happy while we can," returned Billy, with a pretty evasion. "We have one more day."

"Oh, Billy," whispered the Watermelon.

Billy turned and led the way up the path to the house while the Watermelon picked up the two suitcases and followed her.

At the house they found the general with his usual inability to conceal a thing, explaining that they had no money, but wished to have a two-seated team and driver to take them to the nearest town.

The farmer did not hail the proposition with unalloyed joy. He looked thoughtfully from one to the other while Bartlett explained earnestly who he was, who the general was, who they all were, in a vain attempt to undo the general's commendable, if mistaken frankness. Upon promising to let the driver keep his watch as a guaranty of good faith, to be returned when the money they were to telegraph for arrived, Bartlett persuaded the man to give in and go to the barn for the horses.

Billy drew her father aside, while the general, Henrietta and the Watermelon retired discreetly to the well for a drink.

"Father," said Billy, coming directly to the point and evading it with a skill that befitted her father's daughter. "Jerry wants to marry me. Oh, father, I love him so. I love him as much as you do Henrietta."

Bartlett flushed and dismissed Henrietta from the conversation. "My dear Billy, you have only known him a week."

"I know, father," agreed Billy, "but a week is long enough to fall in love in. Truly, it is, father. And we both care so much, so very much."

Bartlett was secretly elated at the idea. He and Batchelor, with their differences reconciled, fighting together, instead of each other, would become rulers of the Street, could attain to any height. Batchelor was young, clever, lovable. There seemed nothing to object to. But he felt that he should. He hemmed and hawed and wished that he could consult Henrietta.

"We don't want the others to know," went on Billy guilefully. "Wait until we get to the town before you say anything, won't you, father?"

"But, Billy, a week."

"Now, father," advised Billy, "just forget it. And I will forget about you and Henrietta."

"About me and Henrietta?" snapped Bartlett.

"Yes," said Billy, "and last night on the porch when you thought we had all gone in."

"That will do, Billy. We did nothing at all but say good night. I have no objection to Batchelor as a son-in-law from what I know of him; but only a week—"

"Just Be Nice to Him, You Know."

"I loved him that very first day. And please, father, you won't say anything, even to him, about it? Just be nice to him, you know. And then I won't say anything."

"Certainly I won't say a thing if you don't want me to, Billy—but there is nothing whatever that you could say."

FAVOR WILSON'S PLAN

Massachusetts Congressional Election Indorse Tariff.

John J. Mitchell Easy Winner in "Thirteenth" Over Republican and Progressive Opponents.

Boston, April 16.—President Wilson's tariff program was overwhelmingly indorsed in the Thirteenth congressional district. In a special election held to fill the seat of John W. Weeks, recently elected to the United States senate, John J. Mitchell, the Democratic candidate, won by a big plurality over the Republican and Progressive candidates.

Although the district is nominally a Republican stronghold, Mitchell won easily. He defeated Alfred L. Cutting, the Republican candidate, by more than 4,000 votes. Norman White, the Bull Moose candidate, was a poor third, his vote amounting to not more than half that polled by Cutting. White ran behind the Progressive candidate of last fall, at the regular congressional election.

Washington, April 16.—President Wilson, upon being informed of Mitchell's victory in the congressional election in Massachusetts, dispatched the following telegram to him:

"The Hon. J. J. Mitchell, Marlborough, Mass.: I very heartily congratulate you on your splendid victory."

"WOODROW WILSON."

Payne, better known as Mrs. Leslie Carter, famous actress, who is appearing at one of the theaters here this week. The attachment was served on complaint of Dr. John H. LONDON AMAZONS DESTROY MANSION

Suffragists Put Explosives in a Member of Parliament's Seaside Home.

BUILDING IS A TOTAL WRECK

Burglars' Methods Are Used—Papers Covered With Jam Over Window to Deaden Noise of Breaking Glass—Firemen Hurt.

Hastings, England, April 16.—Millitant suffragettes destroyed the handsome seaside mansion at St. Leonard-on-Sea belonging to Arthur Philip Du Cros, Unionist member of parliament for Hastings. The women not only set fire to the house, but placed explosives in many of the rooms. The residence had recently been vacated.

The women adopted a method often used by burglars for entering houses. They first spread papers covered with jam over the window to deaden the sound and then smashed the large panes of glass with hammers, the jam preventing the broken glass from falling.

Explosions Amid the Flames.

As soon as the flames were noticed by a passer-by the fire brigade was summoned. The firemen had barely begun their work when a series of explosions occurred. One of the firemen was struck on the head by a piece of metal and severely injured.

A large quantity of suffrage literature was found in the vicinity.

This step was taken, the government announced, "as a consequence of the recent disorders."

Considers Annie Bell Insane.

Annie Bell, the suffragette sentinel who was arrested outside Holloway jail during the imprisonment of Mrs. Pankhurst for carrying a revolver, was brought up again in police court and further remanded without bail in order that physicians may make a report as to her mental state. The police magistrate said he believed her to be insane.

FARMER HOAX VICTIM

Dutchman Comes From Holland to Wed Maxine Elliott.

American Friend, in Response to Appeal for Beautiful Wife, Sends Actress's Picture.

New York, April 16.—Gazing tearfully at a photograph of Maxine Elliott, the actress, Dirk Van Baalen, a Dutch farmer, sailed for Rotterdam on the Rydam. Between spasm of grief, he said he came over two weeks ago all prepared to marry this beautiful lady, but, alas! He had been the victim of a hoax. This, according to the official interpreter, Emilio Vouterius.

Van Baalen said his home was in Meesterdyke, but that he had many friends in Holland, Mich. At least he always counted them friends.

Van Baalen has been a widower since he was a young man. He is now sixty years of age, and, as he had prospered in business, he has been thinking about marrying again. Eligible women in and around Meesterdyke did not seem to be plentiful and in an unguarded moment he wrote to friends in America and asked them if rich and beautiful women, who would like to marry a farmer of sixty were plentiful in the new country.

Dirk had almost forgotten the letter when along came a reply from one of his old friends, who said he was living in Chicago, but knew an estimable woman of Holland, Mich., who had independent means and was already much interested in Dirk. His friends in Michigan had told her about him. The letter contained a photograph of a handsome, dark woman with glowing eyes, which proved to be Miss Maxine Elliott.

HOWLS CHASE TEN THIEVES

They Flee Without Booty When Restaurant Cashier Yells and Saves Register.

New York.—Five men entered the Western luncheon at 4 Day street. Five other men loitered outside. One of those who entered asked Aaron Zuckman for a few cigarettes. Zuckman stooped to get the cigarettes out of the case.

While his head was bent he heard a peculiar noise like metal scraping on wood. He raised his head quickly. One of the customers was embracing the cash register as though it was his intention to bear it away in his arms.

Zuckman is cashier at the restaurant and he knew that none save himself and the boss had a right to lay hands on the register. So he yelled. The man with the cash register in his arms paused; he seemed annoyed.

One of the others picked up a bowl containing toothpicks and fired it at Mr. Zuckman's head. The aim was true; the bowl struck Mr. Zuckman on the cranium, scattering toothpicks and ricocheting round the cigar counter. Still another of the customers reached out and jabbed his fingers into Mr. Zuckman's eyes. Zuckman let out another howl.

"Five of them ran toward Church street and five toward Broadway," said Zuckman in detailing the attempted robbery to a reporter. Just then Mr. Zuckman's boss appeared and ordered him to say no more.

Zuckman, however, had already stated that he knew two of the men. He said they were employed on a building in process of construction near the restaurant, and had frequently been in there for pie and sandwiches. Detectives from the Greenwich station were assigned to the case.

Wheat: The strength of foreign markets in the face of our sharp decline was a surprise to local trade. Broomhall had assortment of 75-900,000 bush from North America during 14 weeks and was correct in his analysis of supply and demand. On conditions in Europe according to his statement, entitled to consideration. Seaboard has done much export business, in hard wheat especially, on basis of the decline. Bids for wheat, now at the head of the lakes to go to Buffalo, have improved and the fleet will soon move. While there may be no immediate incentive for speculative advance our prices are on legitimate basis and not subject to downward revision.
 Corn: Only 32 cars in this market today, most of these on previous contracts to arrive. Industries find it necessary to secure corn from local elevators and there has been better shipping demand today. It is expected that some of the boats loaded will leave this afternoon; nearly two million bush now afloat in harbor. Speculatively market maintains waiting attitude, following large demand as will necessitate removal of the hedges might have a tendency to strengthen the market still further.
 Oats: Advances of from 1-8 to 3-8 were recorded. Receipts small at 102 cars, but as demand was light, prices at the tables were 1-4 to 1-2 lower.
 Provisions: The sharply lower hog market of last few days brought considerable liquidation of long product especially pork. Liquidation appeared to be well over in other product, which enjoyed the good advance in substantial buying today. Buying of lard was thought to be against cash sales for ship and further improvement in the cash trade is anticipated.

A WORD WITH WOMEN

VALUABLE ADVICE FOR TELEGRAPH READERS

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." Often when the kidneys get congested and inflamed such aches and pains follow.

You can tell it is kidney trouble if the secretions are dark colored, contain sediments; the passages are too frequent or scanty. Then help the weakened kidneys. Don't expect them to get well alone.

Doan's Kidney Pills have won the praise of thousands of women. They are endorsed at home—Read this Dixon woman's convincing statement.

Miss Della McGrail, 503 College Ave., Dixon, Ill says: "I do not hesitate to publicly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills, for I found them to be just as good as represented. My kidneys were out of order and I had pains through my back and sides. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and used them. They gave me a permanent cure."

For Sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agent for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PURPLES LEAD IN ELKS' CLUB CONTEST

WHITE TEAM MEMBER BECOME DESPERATE AND PLAN TO RALLY.

Interest in the Elks' billiard tournament, which it is hoped can be completed in two weeks, is increasing as the Whites, desperate because of the commanding lead which the Purples are gaining, are making plans to stop the victorious habits which Roe's men are forming. The Purples now lead Robinson's men, 11 to 8 games, the recent games resulting:

Ell Rosenthal, W. won from Rev. A. B. Whitcombe.

Amos Bosworth, P. won from Bert Davis.

E. Moeller, W. won from Louis Pitcher.

J. W. Moyer, W. won from Al-bright.

C. E. Miller, P. won from O. H. Martin.

E. H. Rickard, P. won from Harvey Senneff.

E. H. Brewster, P. won from C. H. Stackpole.

Dr. Moss, P. won from B. Snyder.

The captains of the two teams urge every man scheduled for a game to play the contest off as soon as possible, as it is planned to have the banquet before the extremely hot weather.
